Science Policy Forum (closed session, invited only)

10:30am, August 3, 2023, Thursday, Room Austin

Science Policy Forum

The Science Policy Forum (SPF) will bring together key scientists and law makers in the U.S. and Korea to strengthen their network and collaboration on science and technology policy. In particular, scientists and policy makers can share ideas and best strategies for cooperation on frontier technologies of mutual interests and emerging technologies in the era of global technology supremacy. Policies of bilateral cooperation on science and technology can be discussed such that they could further enhance stronger global collaboration between scientists and policy makers between Korea and the United States.
